For each year that the company meets required performance targets, the state will provide a grant equivalent to 65 percent of the state personal income withholding taxes derived from the creation of new jobs. If the organization creates all of the jobs called for under the agreement and sustains them for 10 years, BSH could receive a maximum benefit of $1.56 million.

This is the 52nd JDIG award announced since Easley began that program in 2002. JDIG grants are awarded only to projects whose benefits exceed their costs to the state and which would not be undertaken in North Carolina without the grant. Since 2003, the program has been responsible for creating approximately 19,000 jobs and $2.5 billion in investment to North Carolina.
